

A key initiative at Sensitech® is to help our customers prevent cargo theft within their supply chain. Our Global Supply Chain Intelligence Team collects data and reports monthly on cargo theft incidents. These reports provide our subscribers with actionable information to help them proactively plan processes and procedures to mitigate risks associated with cargo theft.

Now imagine having that same historical cargo threat data used to create Sensitech's powerful global threat assessment reports at your fingertips. It's now possible!

Security Dashboard

The Sensitech Supply Chain Intelligence Center (SCIC) now offers access to the industry's largest global intelligence database. We know the importance of historical data when developing a risk-mitigation program. Security professionals need a comprehensive view into previous acts of criminal behavior. The Security Dashboard enables users to visualize cargo crime around the world and use historical trends to make proactive supply chain decisions.

- Where do cargo thieves operate?
- What time of day do most cargo thefts occur?
- What commodities are being targeted and when?

The Security Dashboard is a powerful and secure web-based software platform empowering customers to access Sensitech's historical global intelligence data on demand in ways that are valuable for their specific business and/or region. This is the same global intelligence data used to publish our monthly and quarterly reports, as well as our renowned Annual Global Threat Assessment. Subscribers can now run customized reports by lane, by region, by product to improve security and logistics decision making.

- Secure log-in credentials by location
- Industry's largest historical global cargo crime database
- Filter data by: year, country, state/province, product category, event type, location
